FOREWORD

NO phase of Masonic study is more fascinating than to acquire an intimate knowledge of its books, their authors, or the several editions of the more important works, such as the "Book of Constitutions," "The Pocket Companion," Preston's "Illustrations of Masonry," the "Old Charges" and the Webb "Monitors."

Several lists of the more important standard works have been made available to the general reader, and the "Masonic Curriculum," by G. W. Speth; "Suggestions for Lodge Libraries," by Jos. E. Morcombe; "Traveling Masonic Libraries," by N. R. Parvin, may be supplemented by trade catalogues of the Macoy Publishing and Masonic Supply Co., William Tait, W. H. Miner Co., George Kenning & Son, Spencer & Co., and others.

The following list of bibliographies and catalogues, and the few references to works containing information of bibliographical nature may be welcome to those who realize the importance of securing this information, not only for their own pleasure, but that they may be better prepared to lead those who are taking their first steps in the pursuit of Masonic knowledge. It may also be of assistance to lodge librarians with limited experience.

The compilation of the present list is the first of its kind since H. J. Whymper's "Catalogue of Bibliographies, etc.," issued in 1891. Only 100 copies of that work were printed, consequently it is very scarce and practically unavailable. As this list is tentative, the committee requests that its attention be called to any errors or omissions so that the final compilation may contain reference to every Masonic catalogue published in the English language.

"Bibliographie der Freimaurerischen Literatur," by August Wolfstieg, published by A. Hopfer, Burg, B. M. 1911-1913, 3 volumes, is the most complete Masonic bibliography ever compiled. It is printed in Roman type, with the titles and authors of the listed works given in the language they were written in, which makes the compilation of value even to those with a knowledge of English only. It was published at 73.50 marks, but is now quoted to American buyers at 850 marks.

Claude Antoine Thory, a French Masonic writer of the Nineteenth century, included in his "Acta Latomorum" (1815), a bibliography of the principal Masonic works from 1717 to that date, and was the pioneer in this field. H. J. Whymper says: "The bibliography in Thory's Acta Latomorum is the first genuine bibliography we possess."

Dr. George B. F. Kloss, a distinguished German Masonic writer, compiled "Bibliographie der Freimaurerie und der mit ihr in Verbindung gesetzten geheimen Gesellschaften" in 1844. This contained a list of over six thousand works in many languages, with critical notes on the more important, making it of great value even at present.

The recent production of Wolfstieg's Bibliography culminates a series of bibliographical works in France and Germany of which Reinhold Taute's "Maurerische Bucherkunde" (Leipzig, 1896), and Paul Fesch's "Bibliographie de la Franc-Maconnerie" (Paris, 1912) are good examples.

An English translation of Wolfstieg's work would receive a warm welcome, but a complete and thorough bibliography of Masonic literature in English would be of greater value if it contained such fragmentary notes as have been given by Hughan, Dring, Carson, Whymper, Parvin, Mackey and others.

Many of the catalogues listed in this compilation are out of print and scarce. Copies of those marked # are possessed by the writer, and have only been acquired after several years of search and at considerable expense.

5. Boyden, William L.

Classification of the Literature of Freemasonry and Related Societies. By William L. Boyden, Washington, D. C., 1915.

Although this is not a bibliography, it shows the vast ramification of the literature of Freemasonry, and is intimately connected with bibliography. "A system of card membership record for Masonic bodies and a scheme of classification for Masonic books," by Frank J. Thompson, Fargo, N. D., 1903, and the "Librarian's Report" of the Grand Lodge of Iowa for 1918 may also be noted as of interest to librarians.

6. California, Library of the Grand Lodge

9. Carson, Enoch T. #

A Bibliographical and Descriptive Catalogue of the rare and valuable collection of Books, Pamphlets, Manuscripts and Engravings, on the subject of Freemasonry and other Secret Societies, to be found in the Library of Brother E. T. Carson, Cincinnati, Ohio.

This catalogue was published serially in the American Freemason of Louisville, Ky., in 1854, and is the earliest descriptive catalogue we have noted. Carson's "Masonic Bibliography" (1874) is a more complete and longer work.

10. Carson, Enoch T. #

Masonic Bibliography, by Enoch T. Carson, Cincinnati, Ohio, 1874. 224 pages. From A to Picart.

Unfortunately, this work was never completed from Picart to Z. Its title is misleading, as it is a bibliography of the works in the Masonic Library of Brother Carson. His Library being one of the best of its time, it is a very valuable work, and made extremely so by the comprehensive and illuminating notes.

11. Carson, Enoch T.

Bibliography of Books and Manuscripts on the Orders of Knights Templar and of the Knights of Malta, etc., by Enoch T. Carson. Prepared and edited for and published by the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Ohio. Dayton. Dayton Journal Office, 1879. 55 pages.

This is a very complete and useful work to all who are interested in the older literature pertaining to the chivalric orders.

12. Carus, Dr. Paul #

A Catalogue of Books on Sciences, Religions, and Philosophies. Published by the Open Court Publishing Company, Chicago, 1916. 118 pages.

This catalogue is of particular assistance in the subjects closely allied to Freemasonry, and while not strictly Masonic, may be of exceptional value to many Masonic students.

13. Cassill, Austin A.

Catalogue Masonic Library of Austin A. Cassill, Mount Vernon, Ohio, 1885. 65 pages.

"This is a pamphlet of 65 pages, mostly books, circulars, and proceedings gathered by Cassill. No great value. Collection now boxed up in Southern Iowa, at Bedford."

14. Chase, George Wingate

16. Cincinnati Masonic Library Ass'n

Catalogue of the Masonic Library of Cincinnati, Ohio. Masonic Library Association. 1904.

One of the most ardent Masonic students and bibliophiles was Brother Scott Bonham, who for several years lent his zeal and ability to this association. This library had as its nucleus the small but well selected library of Cornelius Moore.

At this exhibition many rare volumes were included as loans from private collections of R. F. Gould, John Lane and many others. The bibliographical notes are in Brother Hughan's incomparable style of furnishing much information in few words.

English Masonic Literature before 1751, with a tentative list of English references to, and works on, Freemasonry before 1751. By Edmund H. Dring, London, 1913. 41 pages.

For bibliography of this era, this is indeed a splendid work which will long remain an authoritative reference work on the subject of early Grand Lodge literature. (Also in Ars Quatuor Coronatorum, vol. 25.)

23. Drummond, Josiah H. #

Masonic Historical and Bibliographical memoranda. Brookville, Ky., 1882, by Josiah H. Drummond. 127 pages.

Boston, 1852.

This work was published by Henry Gasset of Boston, and was widely distributed as Anti-Masonic propaganda. The catalogue contains the so-called exposes of that period. It is of little value, except as a curiosity.

Gouley, George Frank

See "Missouri, Grand Lodge of." (No. 75.)

34. Gowans, William

A Catalogue of Books on Freemasonry, and Kindred Subjects, compiled by William Gowans, New York, 1854. 33 pages.

35. Gowans, William

A Catalogue of Books on Freemasonry and Kindred Subjects, by William Gowans. New York, 1858. 59 pages.

It is interesting to compare the notes on this catalogue in Enoch T. Carson's "Masonic Bibliography" with the article in the "American Bibliopolist" of March, 1872, on "the late William Gowans." Mr. Gowans was a dealer in second hand books and had an immense stock.

36. Haigh, John #

2. Unpublished Records of the Craft.

By William James Hughan, Hull and Truro, 1871. (American edition, New York, 1872.)

This work, and "The Old Charges of British Freemasons," are the best bibliography of the Old Charges we have. Hughan and Begemann made the study of the documentary history of Freemasonry before the Grand Lodge era possible. See "Begemann, W." in second section.

Garduer has since issued a more up-to-date work. (See No. 31.)

56. Iowa Masonic Library

Catalogue of the Library of the Grand Lodge of Iowa. June 1st, 1873, by Theodore S. Parvin, Grand Secretary, Iowa City, 1873. 144 pages.

This catalogue is superior in some respects to the 1883 edition. The reproduction of title pages makes it very useful to the student. The distinguished compiler was an ardent book lover, and it was through his ability and zeal that Iowa took a foremost place in Freemasonry.

57. Iowa Masonic Library #

Catalogue of the Works on Freemasonry and Kindred Subjects, in the Library of the Grand Lodge of Iowa, A. F. & A. Masons. Fifth edition. (1849, '54, '58, '73) June 1883. To which is prefixed a Separate Catalogue of the Bower Collection. By T. S. Parvin, Iowa City, 1883. 135 pages.

The "Bower Collection" was a choice Masonic Library, collected by Robert F. Bower, of Keokuk, who was an ardent collector and had many extremely rare and in some cases only copies of old Masonic books and manuscripts. This is the last catalogue which has been issued by the Iowa Masonic Library.

58. Kenning, George #

A Catalogue of Books on Freemasonry, published or sold by George Kenning, Freemason Office, 16 and 16a Great Queen Street, London, W. C. March, 1893. 30 pages.

One of the best of the Kenning catalogues.

59. Kenning, George & Son #

Contains catalogue of Masonic publications. This is one of a long series of catalogues issued by this old Masonic publishing and supply house.

Catalogue of Books on Freemasonry and Kindred Subjects, belonging to the Library of the late Albert G. Mackey, M.

D., and now offered for sale at the figures affixed. Washington, D. C. (no date). 46 pages.

This catalogue offers us an opportunity to know the main sources from which the foremost Masonic writer of his time drew his information and inspiration. He had access to the Library of the Supreme Council and many others, but it was the books which he deemed necessary for his private collection which best reflect the man. It appears strange to the collector of today to see "Acta Latomorum" quoted at $3, and the "New Book of Constitutions" of 1738, at $20.

67. Macoy Publishing & Masonic Supply Co. #

Books Masonic and Kindred Subjects, by Macoy Publishing and Masonic Supply Co., New York, 1920. 24 pages.

69. Masonic Library Association of Allegheny Co., Pa.

Catalogue of the Library of the Masonic Library Association of Allegheny County. Compiled and arranged by Agnes M. Elliott. Pittsburgh, 1897. 54 pages.

70. Masonic Publishing Co. #

Semi-annual Catalogues of Masonic Works, sold by the Masonic Publishing Co., in their salesroom in the City of New York, from June, 1877, to May, 1899.

8vo. 1000 pages. (Listed in Catalogue No. 46 of the Masonic Pub. Co., Nov. 1899.)

The writer has an incomplete set of 21 of these old "auction catalogues" from 1877 to 1902. They afford a fund of information in regard to the works then offered for sale. It causes regret that many of the items listed are now impossible to procure at any price.

71. Masonic Publishing Co.

Semi-annual Catalogues of the Masonic Publishing Co., dating from 1899 to 1902. (Numbers 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51.)

No. 51 was the last catalogue issued in the series. The business changed hands and has since been conducted by the Macoy Publishing and Masonic Supply Co., which has issued many catalogues.

72. Miner, William Harvey

Freemasonry. A Catalogue of Books, for the most part of Masonic interest, with a selection of standard and important works on allied subjects. No. 65, The Torch Press Book Shop. Cedar Rapids, Iowa. (No date—about 1915.) 47 pages.

The Torch Press Book Shop is no more.

William Harvey Miner now issues catalogues for The William Harvey Miner Co., Inc., St. Louis, Mo., and still sells Masonic books, although the No. 65 of the Torch Press had more scarce items than have since been offered, and was of more value to the student than the ordinary trade catalogue.

73. Miner, W. H.

Catalogue No. 6 from the William Harvey Miner Co., Inc., Antiquarian Booksellers, 3518-20-22 Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo. 36 pages.

76. Moore, C.

Catalogue of the Masonic Library of C. Moore, editor of "The Masonic Review," Cincinnati. (No date—about 1865.) 15 pages.

This catalogue contains 264 numbers and is noted in the Masonic Bibliography by E. T. Carson. "The entire collection was purchased by the Masonic Library Association of Cincinnati."

77. Morton, John Metcalfe #

A Catalogue of Books, Rare, Curious, Occult, Masonic and Miscellaneous, etc. for sale by John Metcalfe-Morton, Antiquarian Bookseller, of Ye Olde Booke Shoppe, No. 1 Duke Street, Brighton, England. No. XLVIII. 1920.

This catalogue contains 72 Masonic works, some of considerable interest. The catalogues of John Metcalfe-Morton are issued quite frequently, and always contain enough to make them very desirable to the Masonic collector and bibliophile.

84. Pennsylvania, Library of the Grand Lodge of ordinary interest. The Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania is now compiling an up-to-date catalogue, and this will be a boon to the Pennsylvania brethren, as well as a very welcome help to librarians and bibliophiles in sister jurisdictions.

Pythagoras Lodge

We list three catalogues of the Library of Pythagoras Lodge, viz., 1859, and May and Nov., 1887. These three catalogues tell the story well known to the book lover. The first catalogue represents the collection and classification, and the last two the final dispersion that other libraries may be enriched.

This sale attracted such collectors as Hughan, Lawrence, Watson and others and such works as "Multa Paucis" (1763) were included in the many rare bargains they obtained. The catalogue of Nov., 1887 (No. 3) contains a reprint from the London Freemason describing the May sale.

97. Scotland #

Grand Lodge of Scotland. Catalogue of Books and Manuscripts in the Library at Freemasons' Hall, Edinburgh. Published by authority of Grand Lodge by the Grand Secretary, 1906.

This catalogue is of particular value to the student on account of containing the valuable library which Dr. Charles Morison, who died in 1849, bequeathed to the Grand Lodge of Scotland. "The Books and Manuscripts consisted of over two thousand works, mainly in the French language. They chiefly consisted of the larger part of the library of the Grand Lodge of 'The Scots Philosophic Rite' at Paris." The objects of this rite were Masonic archaeological research, etc.

98. Simons, John W.

Catalogue of Masonic and Miscellaneous Books, Pamphlets, Magazines, etc., contained in the library of John W. Simons, of New York. N. Y. Masonic Publishing Co. (No date.)

This is one of the "Auction Catalogues," and was issued subsequent to 1870, as works up to that date are included. Brother Simons is best known through his "A Familiar Treatise on the Principles and Practice of Masonic Jurisprudence" (1864). The catalogue shows the interest he took in this phase of Freemasonry by the large percentage of Constitutions, Ahiman Rezons, Monitors and manuals it contains.

London. Spencer. (No date —about 1860.)

Enoch T. Carson describes this catalogue as "A fine collection, the largest and best that has been offered for sale in England. It contains about 500 numbers of books, manuscripts and engravings, in English, French and German. It was sold en bloc."

103. Spencer, R.

Catalogue of Books sold by R. Spencer. London, 1875.)

Richard Spencer was one of the foremost promoters of the Masonic hook trade, and his catalogues are of great interest. The older ones are now very scarce. The firm of Spencer & Co. still do a large business in Masonic books. The first Richard Spencer published Masonic books in 1799. "Early in the next century he was succeeded by the second Richard Spencer, his nephew. He in turn was succeeded by Walter Spencer, his (the second Richard's) son, and since about 1878, the firm has been known as 'Spencer & Co.'"

104. Spencer & Co.

Spencer & Co.'s Masonic Illustrated Price List of Jewels, Clothing, Furniture, Banners, and all Requisites for Freemasonry. London. 19th edition.

A portion of this catalogue is given to books (a large percentage of which are rituals). To the American Mason the advertising of rituals "in a form intelligible only to the initiated" appears a strange phraseology.

105. Spencer & Co. #

This work is a proposed course of study and refers the student to the best works to be read and consulted on the many phases of Freemasonry and allied subjects. It is one of the best works of one of the most profound and thorough Masonic scholars. It is now out of print, but we hope to see a reprint soon.

107. Staton, James W. #

Catalogue of the Masonic Library of James W. Staton, deceased. Now offered for sale by his administrators, R. E. & H. W. Staton, Brooksville, Ky. 1904. 155 pages.

This catalogue is largely made up of "proceedings," and when the library was placed on the market it afforded an opportunity for many libraries to obtain numbers of proceedings they desired. It is of considerable interest in having the proceedings well classified.

108. Staton, James W.

Bangs, Merwin & Co., New York, 1867. 17 pages.

This is one of the many "Auction Catalogues" which were issued during the last half of the Nineteenth century. These old catalogues are of interest in showing many works which are now extremely scarce advertised for sale. At present it is customary for the one desiring a rare book to advertise for it. Such rare works as Preston's Illustrations of Masonry (2nd edition) and Thory's Acta Latomorum are advertised in this catalogue. This was the collection of the Masonic historian and writer, G. W. Steinbrenner.

118. Warvelle, George #

Library of Oriental Consistory, Chicago, Ill. A serial catalogue in ten parts, by George Warvelle. (No date.) 156 pages.

This catalogue was compiled by an ardent book lover who was thoroughly conversant with Masonic literature, but did not compile it with sufficient system to make its valuable contents readily available to those who used it. It is, however, an interesting bibliographical treasure to the student, and may be used to advantage with the later catalogue of Oriental Consistory.
